

Deanne Berry*Choreographer and Celebrity Dance Fitness Instructor

Born and raised in Australia, Deanne spent most of her early performing years in Sydney. She was working as a singer/dancer/choreographer in various musicals, videos, TV adverts and corporate shows. Deanne then spent a further eight years based in London where her career thrived. Since the release of Ministry of Sounds famed 80's style 'Call on Me' video by Eric Prydz, in which she plays the role of an aerobics instructor, she has been catapulted into the media spotlight. It was that video which led Deanne's career as a performer to transition into the fitness industry and sparked a huge passion for creating exercise that excites and inspires others.
