

Dr. Trish Gorman

Professor of Practice in Strategy, Author and Consultant

Trish has joined the Pendulum team in support of the innovative new learning model, Pendulum 360. She has extensive background in online learning, custom education for professionals, and innovations in program delivery.

She has helped set up a number of successful online learning programs and curricula. Jack Welch called upon her to contribute to, and then lead, the Jack Welch Management Institute, an accredited, fully online MBA.

She served as Director of Global Strategy Learning for McKinsey & Company; Director of Wharton's Global Consulting Practicum; and is a Consulting Program Director for Columbia Executive Education in both their online and in-person realms. Drawing on both her deep consulting experience and her academic training, Trish has designed, developed and delivered high impact programs for hundreds of audiences around the world through both corporate universities and degreed university platforms.

